

Denny Armington joins Youth Opportunity Investments as President of the Youth Opportunity Foundation. Denny has been in healthcare management thirty-eight years. He has held administrative positions in a number of hospital and rehabilitation programs, including the Rehabilitation Hospital of Indiana. Most recently, Denny served as President of Healex Network, a start-up healthcare reimbursement technology company. Mr. Armington graduated from the University of Iowa with a BA and earned a Master's degree in Hospital Administration from Tulane University. He has been happily married for forty-two years and has raised four children who have two grandchildren, so far.