Youth Opportunity Investments plans construction of new Texas campus

Ronald D. Hunter, Chief Executive Officer of Youth Opportunity Investments, LLC, announced the proposed expansion of The Center for Success and Independence, a Houston-based mainstay for youth with trauma-based needs and substance abuse treatment.

The proposed state-of-the-art residential campus will be developed in three phases. The first phase, designed for Human Trafficking Youth, is expected to begin in the first half of 2018. Clinical oversight of the new campus will be headed by Marylou Erbland, PhD, who is currently the clinical director of The Center for Success and Independence.

Dr. Erbland said, "Identifying potential trafficking victims has become an important priority for the Governor of Texas, and for The Center for Success and Independence." Dr. Erbland currently sits on the Governor's task force for Human Trafficking.
